Technical Standards – Essential Functions

I hereby indicate that I have read, understand, and am prepared to meet these Technical Standards or Essential Functions of Saint Vincent Health Center School of Medical Technology. I have also had the opportunity to have any and all questions answered to my satisfaction. These standards have been developed in compliance with the National Accrediting Agency for Clinical Laboratory Sciences (NAACLS) and the Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990. The Technical Standards - Essential Functions in effect are as follows:

1. Adequate physical health is necessary to meet the job requirements of a Medical Technologist and avoid presenting hazards to the health of others.
2. Adequate emotional health is necessary to work safely and accurately under stress.
3. Adequate hand-eye coordination and fine-motor skills are necessary to meet the job requirements of a Medical Technologist.
4. Normal or corrected eyesight is necessary in order to safely and accurately perform patient testing. Colorblindness will not preclude admission, but will be noted and compensated for during the program year in order to accurately interpret testing procedures that depend on color recognition and interpretation.
5. Students must provide their own health insurance coverage during the program year.
6. Students must maintain a minimum 70% grade performance in all lecture subjects in order to advance to the Clinical Rotation portion of the program year.
7. Students must maintain a minimum 70% grade performance in all Clinical Rotation Review Examinations in order to complete the clinical rotation portion of the program year.
8. A nonrefundable deposit of $500.00 is required of all individuals accepting an offer of admission in order to hold a place in the upcoming class. This deposit is deducted from the total tuition charge.
9. Students who completed their undergraduate education in foreign countries where English is not the predominate language must submit results of the TOEFL Examination (Information at toefl.org)

This statement must be signed and dated by the applicant and returned as part of the application package.
